

CCSC Alumni In The News

Stephen Wallace

To support the release of his new book, Reality Gap: Alcohol, Drugs, and Sex - What Parents Don't Know and Teens Aren't Telling, CCSC director Stephen Wallace recently conducted a 20-city radio tour, stressing the importance of effective family communication in helping youth to make healthy choices about alcohol, other drugs, sexual behavior, violence, and bullying. Stephen joined programs in Detroit, MI, New Haven, CT, Gainesville, FL, New York, NY, Roanoke, VA, Providence, RI, Salisbury, MD, Minneapolis, MN, Atlanta, GA, Toledo, OH, Tucson, AZ, Boston, MA, Regional, IL, West Palm Beach, FL, Denver, CO, Parkersburg, WV, Cleveland, OH, Columbia, MO, Manchester, NH and Carbondale, IL.

Publisher's Weekly and Booklist have already weighed in on Reality Gap, saying that Wallace "bridges the gap" and that his "hands-on research and in-depth interviews are tremendously useful, as are his discussions of the role of the media and the mixed signals gleaned from parents." And our own local paper, the Sunday Cape Cod Times says, "Mom, Dad: Read This. Grownups who care about kids should pick up this revealing compilation. In addition, Stephen serves as a spokesperson for the White House's National Youth Anti-Drug Media Campaign. On October 9th, he spoke with ten media outlets, including CNN Radio, about the link between stress and alcohol and drug use among teens. The cities included Syracuse, Kansas City, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, and Dallas.

For more information about Stephen's important new book, visit www.RealityGapTheBook.com. From there you can click over to his website or to the Barnes & Noble ordering page.

